REFLECTIONS

The year began as I recall this sparkling, snapping cold January night, with a sense of profound relief. Relief that Sanjiv Desai was safe from the Karachi hijacking, relief that five days of faculty meetings were over and now we could get down to working and living with children again. This year has been strangely uneventful as far as unpleasant surprises are concerned. Yet powerful good things seem to happen daily. As I reflect on the why of this fortuitous run of events, I cannot help blaming the faculty—gleefully blame you for being cheerful in times of joy and in times of adversity, for being sensitive and courteous to one another as well as to the students, for being enthusiastic, conscientious and most of all for being caring people of immense goodwill. The tone you have set reflects back in the actions of the Sixth Form and the rest of the students. Students seem to care, to show respect; they are remarkably pleasant to one another and seem to appreciate the diversity about them rather than fear and persecute the differences. They are actually enjoying their growing up.

These are the pleasant reflections I have this clear, sharp January night of 1987 though I know full well times of trial and challenge lie ahead.

DEDICATION

Romance has sweetened the air surrounding Pocumtuck Hill as two people, while winning one another's hearts, have captured the imagination and admiration of everyone on campus.
It probably comes as no surprise to those who reflect carefully on the events of the year to learn that the Sixth Form voted to dedicate the 1987 Talon to RACHEL BLAIN and ANDY CHASE!

The excitement hasn't subsided since they announced their engagement to the entire school in February .

Although Rachel and Andy plan to be married in August, they have found time to be faithful teachers, friends, advisers, and colleagues.

Rachel, a member of the Modern Language Department, is a graduate of Andover and Amherst College. Andy, the Director of Development and Alumni Affairs, graduated from Eaglebrook in 1973, attended Deerfield Academy, graduated from Williams College, and returned to the Hill in 1983.

All of us wish them great good fortune and much happiness!

TIMES TOGETHER

1986-8

Ninety-two new students arrived on September 10th, representing 25 states and 19 foreign coutries. With the arrival of the Old Boys on Thursday, Eaglebrook was ready to begin its 65th year.

New boys were busy meeting dormitory faculty, moving into their rooms, saying good-bye to their parents, and then meeting Mr. Blain for some getting acquainted activities on Infirmary Field.

By Friday, there was course signup followed by classes. The year was underway!

Reflecting on the year 1986-1987, many of us will best remember our classmates, those who shared with us so many experiences, some good, some bad, but shared. Studying together for an important math test, rumbling in the cookie line, talking over weekend plans, enjoying a much needed break during recess, sitting on the bench and hoping the coach would put us in the game, laughing together in the dorm or at assembly, occasionally hacking, sailing boats in Whipple Pond—these are only a few of the things we have done together.

Some of our friendships we hope will last for a long time, maybe a lifetime. Alumni, when they come back to the Hill at Fair or Carnival, always tell us that the friendships made here have been some of their closest.

"Graceless lady, you know who I am / you know I can't let you slide through my hands / wild, wild horses couldn't drag me away." —Rolling Stones

Activities at EBS: DUST

Life's ambition: vegetable shepherd, soda collector.
Special and esteemed thanks to Keith Blodgett.

"'You want another copita?' the barman asked. "'No, thank you,' said the waiter and went out. He disliked bars and bodegas. A clean, well-lighted cafe was a very different thing. Now, without thinking further, he would go to his room. He would lie in the bed and finally, with daylight, he would go to sleep. After all, he said to himself, it is probably only insomnia. Many others must have it." —E. Hemingway, "A Clean, Well-lighted Place"

"Your friends are your needs answered."

Scudder Thompson Fowler (Scudder), New York, NY

Mom and dad, thanks for all the opportunities. One of my ambitions is to somehow repay you. To my friends, though my thoughts aren't always true, I hoped my advice helped you. You helped me by just being near. Let's finish well what we started here.

EBS is responsible for all of my success. They have done wonders with the boy who came here three years ago. Athletically, academically, and in many other ways EBS has helped me and I am grateful. I learned a lot and had fun.
Thanks for the chance Mom and Dad.

Special thanks to the Duffys. I wouldn't have made it without you.
"I want to push myself to my limits because I am certainly not the best I can be yet. I know that success follows lots of work but I am willing to work. My boundaries are unknown to me but if I don't try to cross them, I'll never be anything but another brick in the wall. I want to be the best I can be." —Scudder Fowler

BAINES

What a year! New faces, renovations, babies heard from, and one that kept us waiting. Monopoly, Foosball, who had time to be bored?

From welcoming tours to hosting the Freedom from Chemical Dependency classes, a place to gather after sports and before Vespers, Baines was a center of activity.

Even when it seemed like the roof was caving in around us, or in our case the ceiling, the spirit of Baines survived.

Paul Shih, student extraordinaire.

Mrs. Fox, travel agent, who stayed up past midnight to ensure that all students got home for Thanksgiving. Hurrah!

Sam von Trapp and Hakim Said who, betweeen assignments, sat in front of the computer screen for video games.

Cody McInnes, 5th form soccer great, who attempted to use his speed to escape from the Halloween Horror Ride.

Matt Hurley, lover of the good life and Rambo of laser tag.

Mr. Chidsey, the Official Dog Walker of Eaglebrook.

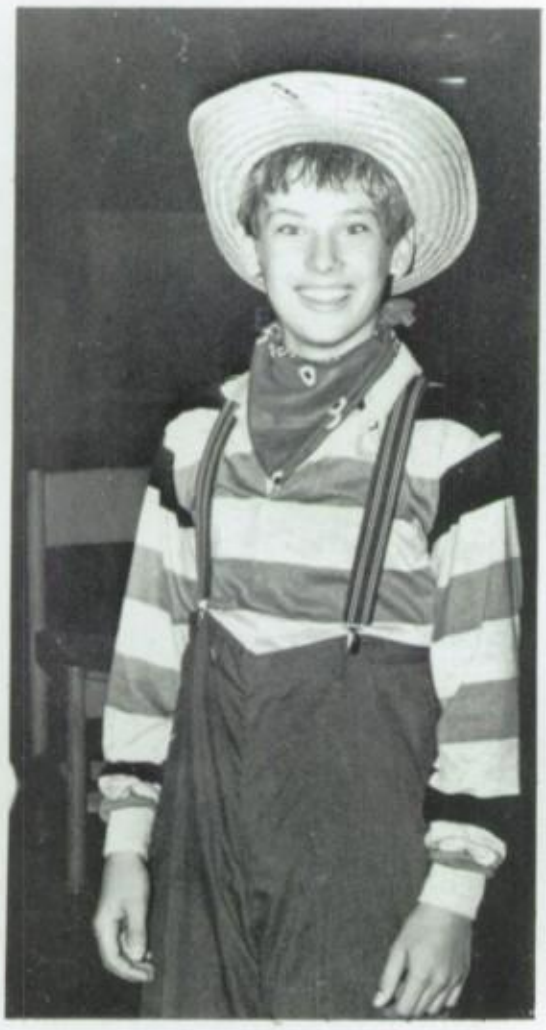
Mr. Fox, the unofficial table hockey champion.

A very generous group of boarders and day students; they combined to contribute over $104 to the local Adopt-a-Family charity.

Mr. Osborne, the only commuting Housemaster.

The green eyes, wiggling worms and the other gruesome memories from the Halloween party; the scary long bus ride.

Mrs. Jones, who rode herd over the "fearsome five" on the first floor.



"You hack!" (Eric Goldblatt)

"Nick, your computer is smoking!"

"How can you call this thing a pencil sharpener?" (almost everyone)

"I have too much work to do to have to tell you to shut up every two seconds."

FLAGLER

Gentlemen, I have a couple of things to go over...

This really has been an exciting year and I must admit that back in September when we assembled for our first dorm meeting that I was a bit anxious. We came from so far away and from places that were so different. I wondered how it would all unfold and secretly hoped that at least one of you was a Lakers fan. Would there be lasting friendships? Could anyone possibly be as funny as Tod Curtis? Well, there certainly are some wonderful friendships now, and what has impressed me most about you as a group is your sense of humor. Take home at least a small measure of the understanding and kindness which you have displayed here, and remember to remind yourselves and others, how forty young men with homes in places like the Bronx, Japan, and Connecticut were able to accept their differences and happily live together.

KEITH

Keith House, home of the physically fit, able to run up long stairs in a single bound and slide down just as fast. It's been a year of energy but very positive interactions. The start of the year was like old home week; some new faces but many old ones as we had a veteran crew reinhabit the place.

From the beginning, we had our own flavor, including Saturday nights after the movies . Our sixth formers were a solid group; picking procters wasn't easy. They all helped out when asked.

The endless ring of the telephone, perennially unemptied wastebaskets, shovelling snow from those same stairs, nickles in the commons room, and lots of computer games.

And in the years to come, the ghosts who inhabit these corridors will grow by doing, acting, and marrying. Small echoes will come back to say that maybe this was a palace where some of their vulnerabilities were overcome.

MACY

This year began for Macy House as it may have for Alice as she peered into the looking glass at her reflection. The images she saw and the adventures she soon embarked upon were not quite what she had expected. So it was for the folks at Macy as our peaceful summer daydreams took a dramatic turn with the arrival of school. "What is this strange place?" was the question of the day. As we paused to gaze into our own looking glasses, we saw ourselves surrounded by strange characters, unrelated events and incoherent happenings. Time was disjointed, confusion and mayhem seemed to rule.

Before long, however, we found friends, people whose reflections were similar. We shared our experiences, suddenly bringing order and sense back to our lives. Images and events were now fitting into place, and our looking glasses no longer deceived us. We were comfortable and happy, in control and eager to explore and branch out. It wasn't always easy, but we pulled together in this strange place. Macy House was a good place to be. Few things will ever mirror it.

SPRING SUPPLEMENT

SPRING SUPPLEMENT

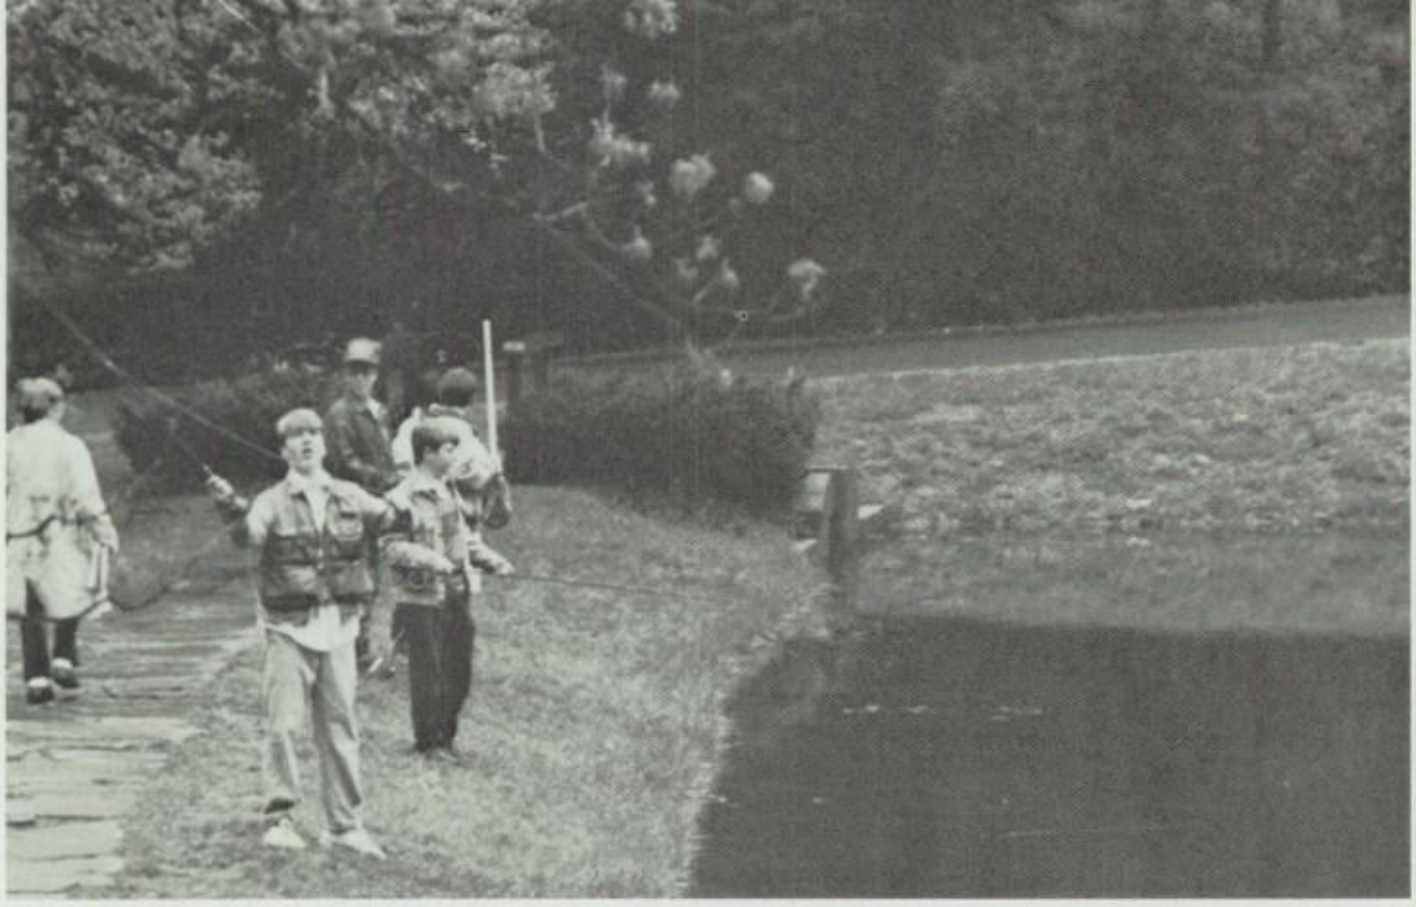
The TALON arrived and was distributed two weeks later. Doug Horner and Scott Pearman announced the dedication at lunch on Field Day.

The next hour was one of the quietest hours of the last week of school.

ADDENDA

Apologies to Richard Fox, whose name was omitted in the photography credits.

Thanks to Mr. Ricardo Poma, father of Fernando, for joining our list of PATRONS.



Spring showers turned to snow, but the pond fishermen were undaunted in their efforts to entice as many trout as possible to try their lures.

Back from a long March vacation, students and teachers were so busy with so many activities—assemblies, Grandparents' Day, International Day, electives, Memorial Day, Field Day, Baccalaureate, Commencement—that there was little time for reflection. Also, it becomes apparent that there is too little space in a sixteen-page supplement to fit all of these activities. We can only try to present a few lures with which you may be able to fish for memories in the months and years ahead.

Todd Bourret, V
Sorry to miss you, Todd.

International Week

International Week, guided by Karen Pullen and Sally Jones, provided both entertainment and serious matters for reflection. The Reverend Doctor William Sloan Coffin was the principal speaker on International Day.

Dear Sixth Form:

As a school, Eaglebrook wishes you well. As individual students we will miss you, love you, and be happy for you as you depart from the Brook. You have meant so much to all of us, and there is no real way to thank you except by saying that we will always remember you.

From the Third and Fourth Formers we say, "Thank you for the memories, leadership, and friendship you have supplied us with." From the Fifth Form we say, "We'll miss you, and thank you for the good times, and the years of guidence and brotheristerhood." We all want you to succeed and prosper, and we'll all miss you.

Sincerely,

The Brook

Dear Jason
have a good summer and do good next year don't back to much
John Stanley

Ramscum,
You're still an obnoxious, party prone, back talking 6th former to me. But don't worry about it, Don't destroy Cafe like you did Eaglebrock. California, of course, is 2nd to Florida. Just kidding.
Good riddance,

JASON-
I KNOW YOU AND SQUIRE GET ALONG REAL WELL AND THAT YOU'LL BE KEEPING IN TOUCH WITH HIM.
I WAS JUST LETTING YOU GEAT ME.
MAYBE ALL SEE YA SOMETIME.
-Dan Berrin

JASON - Just think Squire won't make you a leper anymore hope you like your Next school and keep running
-Culley Thomas

Jason, Did you do your homework? Do you need more loving in your life? Good luck next year. Have fun at your new school. Stay cool this summer.
